The close of the year of school work requires of your committee another annual report. We can only claim a year of average prosperity in attendance, interest and progress. While some of our schools have appeared unusually prosperous, others have suffered hinderances in their accustomed progress, in the way of a temporary suspension, while an epidemic of scarlet fever was prevailing; and in delays, waiting for school-houses in process of repair. Any interruption in study and effort works disastrously to the interests of the school. Seldom, if ever, after a suspension, is the general attendance as good as before, nor is the former interest regained. We deplore any circumstances that necessitate a suspension of school work.

Our schools do not reach the degree of excellence we would like, nor can they do so while under the present district system of management. Their efficiency and value would be much increased were the several districts consolidated into one, and the schools placed under the control and supervision of a Board of Education, consisting of three or more members. The advantages resulting from this course of action have been mentioned in previous school reports, and we would cite particularly that of 1880, where this matter is more fully discussed. Under such system, the tuition of Watson Academy could be provided by the town, and thus its advantages enjoyed by all pupils of sufficient advancement to enter upon a prescribed course of study.

Our common schools, "the people's colleges," should furnish the best possible means for educating the masses. The benefits of an education in academies and colleges are only enjoyed by the few, compared to the many who are educated in the common school, hence the necessity of making them as effective in their preparatory work, for all the pursuits of life, as possible. A sum—above that required by law—expended in our common schools would be a most profitable investment, as general intelligence suppresses intemperance, vice, and pauperism.

The introduction into our schools, in compliance with our newstate law, of text-books treating upon the baneful effects of narcotics and stimulants upon the human system, is a progressive step and must result beneficially. This beginning at the foundation to uproot the evils of intemperance from society, by employing proper means of preventing the evil, proves the truthfulness of the old adage respecting prevention and cure. When our youth are more thoroughly instructed regarding the injurious effects of narcotics and stimulants upon the different organs of their bodies, less of them will become subjects of their power. The study of this important branch of knowledge should be encouraged by parents and teachers.

The teachers, without exception, have conscientiously discharged their important work; some, from long experience and natural fitness for their position, obtaining a more marked success than others; this we expect. Several possess superior natural and acquired qualifications for their work, and are worthily considered first-class teachers; their services should be secured another year. The registers were generally well-kept and returned promptly at the close of the schools.

The school houses throughout the town are now in good condition; those in the village have been extensively and suitably repaired, the rooms enlarged, and furnished with desks of modern style, approved for comfort and durability, and adapted to the age of the pupils; the southerly one has been moved to a pleasant and healthful site, with more agreeable surroundings, and it will seat fifty-six pupils of a grammar school grade. The school room of the northerly house will seat sixty-four children of a primary grade. The school rooms of both houses now present an inviting appearance, well suited to their uses. An appropriation of eleven hundred and fifty dollars was first made to repair these houses, which being found insufficient, was subsequently increased by five hundred dollars. Three hundred and fifty dollars were raised by assessment, leaving a present indebtedness of thirteen hundred dollars. A part of this appropriation is reserved for painting the houses in the early Spring.

Respectfully submitted,

F. W. SPAULDING,

Supt. School Committee.

Epping, N. H.. Feb. 27, 1885.

TAKE YOUR HOME PAPER!
THE EPPING LEADER,
W. H. DRURY, MANAGER.

TERMS, $1.25 per year, in advance.

The LEADER aims to give all the local news, and strives to work for the interests of Epping and her citizens. Encourage it with your patronage, that it may the better serve you.

JOB PRINTING

Of every description neatly, cheaply, and promptly executed. Don't give your printing to out-of-town parties, but patronize home industry.

BIG WRECK!

MARCH WINDS

Have Knocked Prices Higher than a Kite

AT EATON'S.

I have lately bought heavily from two bankrupt sales and am bound to reduce stock to make room for Spring goods and stock taking April 1.

Call Early and Look Over the Wreck.

REMEMBER THE PLACE,

Eaton's Leading Dry Goods House,
